

Expect Sputnik Rocket to Fall Today or Sunday

Like White Streak
In Daytime, Shooting
Star in Night Plunge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The earthward plunge of the first Sputnik's fellow-traveling rocket, expected either today or Sunday, will look like a shooting star or a white streak against the sky, a top scientist said Friday night.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, said the appearance of the streaking rocket would depend on whether it fell at night or in the day time.

He said that in a night descent the object would flare for possibly 1000 miles "like a shooting star" while a daylight plunge would look like a streak of white smoke against the sky.

72 Seconds From Death

Scientists calculated that the rocket was only 72 seconds away from the critical speed which would lead to its fatal entry into the earth's atmosphere.

Thought experts have been working on data which may give them the exact hour of the death-plunge, it was conceded by Whipple that this would be very difficult.

"If the rocket becomes aerodynamic and levels out as it enters the atmosphere," he said, "it might soar along for a longer time than we now expect."

Could Plunge Today

"On the other hand, if it turns broadside toward the resisting atmosphere, it could plunge earlier, even Saturday, and skitter off in an unpredictable direction."

However, it was generally expected that the rocket would fall sometime Sunday.

The scientist again said he believed the object would survive the terrific friction of the atmosphere. If it lands where it could be recovered, Whipple said, "the solidly constructed parts such as the rocket motor, should come through without being badly destroyed."

Cold Wave Hits Illinois

By United Press

The coldest temperatures of the season swept across Illinois during the night. Another cold night was ahead.

Temperatures fell as low as nine degrees at Rockford where an inch of snow fell.

Traces of snow were reported across the state as a cold wave hit.

Early morning temperature readings included 13 above at Chicago—the coldest in the city since last March 3.

Other dawn readings showed Moline 11, Peoria 12, Springfield 13, Vandalia 15, Rantoul 18 and Belleville 19.

High temperatures during the day were expected between 15 to 20 in the northwest ranging to the upper 20s.

Low readings by Sunday morning may range from near 10 degrees in the northwest to near 20 along the Ohio River.

The state Highway Division today reported roads in Illinois were generally bare and dry except for scattered spots of ice in and north of the Joliet and Aurora areas.

ELDER STATESMEN—Sir Winston Churchill, who is 83 today, and Sen. Theodore Green (D-Ill.), 90, chat outside the London residence of John H. Whitney, U. Churchill Observes His 83rd Birthday In Quiet Celebration

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 83rd birthday today, his once-powerful body bowed under the weight of the years.

The statesman, who guided Britain through its "finest hour," took time out from work on the last volume of his massive four-volume "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" to observe the anniversary.

It was a quiet celebration at the Churchill home at Chartwell in the country near London. Only members of the family and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the victor of El Alamein, shared in the celebration.

Years Take Toll

Churchill no longer has the physical strength for prolonged festivities. The years have taken their toll of the sturdy frame which served him in his adventure-filled career from the Boer War through World War II.

Montgomery, almost as flamboyant a figure as his former chief, disclosed he was greeting the old warrior with the Churchillian phrase: "Sir, I salute you with 83 salutes from a hundred thousand guns."

Tributes and greetings to Churchill have poured in to his home from all over the world for days. Many came from the United States.

In a special message to his well-wishers, Churchill said:

"I should like to express my very warm thanks to all those who have sent me messages on my 83rd birthday. There is such a large number that I cannot unfortunately answer them personally but it has given me and my family great pleasure to be remembered in this way."

Churchill drove the 30 miles from London to Chartwell last Wednesday after attending the wedding of his grand-niece, Sally, and making one of his rare appearances in the House of Commons.

Because of his deafness and his failing strength, Churchill no longer speaks in Commons. But he enjoys showing up occasionally to take his famous front bench corner seat below the gangway and listen to the House he dominated so long.

McKinley Joiner Funeral Sunday

The funeral of McKinley Joiner, 61, who died Friday, will be held in the Spring Valley church at 2 p. m. Sunday, with burial in the church cemetery.

Mr. Joiner is survived by his wife, Anna, and the following brothers and sisters: Youles Joiner, Pontiac, Mich.; Loy Joiner, Muddy, S. Sinda Hogg, Pankeyville, and Mrs. Arvie Dixon, Dorrisville. His brother, Hillis Joiner, preceded him in death in March of this year.

Ranch officials decided against scheduling a rodeo in favor of showing their royal visitor the day-to-day routine of ranching. Cowhands were admonished to mind their manners, but told to go about their routine chores.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Small to moderate increases in unemployment were reported this month in three-fifths of the nation's major industrial centers.

But the Labor Department said the number of jobs was near an all-time peak for the season in many parts of the nation.

Defense cutbacks in aircraft production caused the greatest jump in unemployment, the department said. Areas specializing in machinery and primary metals also reported significant increases in jobless totals.

Seasonal reductions in employment were reported in the food processing, lumber and construction industries. Most employers anticipated a temporary pick-up in hiring before Christmas but the outlook for January was less favorable than was the case last year.

Further lay-offs were predicted for the aircraft industry because of the "stretch out" in military buying. The sharpest cutbacks were expected in Los Angeles, Long Beach and San Diego, Calif., Wichita, Kan., and Columbus, Ohio. Virtually all aircraft plants prepared to lower payrolls before mid-January, the department said.

The survey found that no major industrial area had a labor shortage in November. Two Connecticut cities—Hartford and Stamford—Norwalk—were removed from the shortage classification after being in that category for one year. Lay-offs in aircraft, machinery and construction led to the downgrading.

Only two of the 149 areas surveyed showed less unemployment.

They were Flint, Mich., which benefited from a pick-up in auto production, and Fall River, Mass., where textile plants and retail trade increased employment.

The Labor Department said among the areas which showed a major rise in unemployment were: Peoria, Ill.; Wichita, and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Workers receiving jobless benefits under the Federal-State Insurance System totaled 1,493,700 during the week ended Nov. 16—about 540,000 above the 1953 total for the corresponding week.

State reporting major increases in the number of those receiving benefits were California (23,400), New York (11,100), Illinois (9,600), and Pennsylvania (9,400).

Elks to Hold Annual Memorial Service Sunday

Tomorrow, the first Sunday in December, is Elks Memorial Sunday, and Harrisburg Lodge No. 1058 will observe its annual Memorial service at the First Presbyterian church at 2 p. m. Exalted Ruler John R. Small announced today.

The Memorial service, which is a beautiful, reverent dedication to the memory of departed Elks, will contain a special feature this year, Mr. Small announced. Eugene Schnierle, president of the Illinois Elks Association, will deliver the memorial address, and he plans to use the address given at last year's service by the late Sen. Glen O. Jones, a member of Harrisburg lodge. Those who were present last year thought the address was classic, and Harrisburg lodge was fortunate in saving Sen. Jones' text, which will be used as a fitting tribute to his memory as a citizen and an Elk.

The Elks ritual team will present the service, Mrs. Dale Sullivan will be the organist, and John Schork will sing the Lord's Prayer. Exalted Ruler Small extended a special invitation to the families of deceased brothers, and to all Elks, their friends, and the general public to attend the services.

Dr. Condon Hits Political Abuse Of Scientists

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Atomic physicist Edward U. Condon has assailed "the political abuse of the personnel security system" for "blighting" the relations between American scientists and government.

Dr. Condon, Washington University professor, accused the Eisenhower administration of "indifference" and singled out the vice president in particular in his attack against what he called "persecution of scientists."

"The evil consequences of bad policies have come home to roost in a way that is plain for all to see," he told members of the American Physical Society Friday night. "Dozens" of scientists have been "hounded out of jobs by silly disloyalty charges."

Nixon was a member of a House Un-American Activities Committee that in 1948 called Condon "one of the weakest links in our atomic security." Condon referred to Nixon as one of the men who "undermined and attacked" scientists.

"We have not been true to the principles of freedom for which we stand," he charged. "We have allowed these principles to be undermined and attacked and weakened by men like the one who may move into the White House, in case the illness of the President proves to be more serious than we have been told."

Surrender GI to Japan for Trial

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has won the right to try a U. S. soldier for murdering the Japanese wife of an American sailor, it was announced today.

The Army said the murder suspect, S3C Gregory J. Kupski, 23, of Detroit, has been surrendered to Japanese authorities. Tokyo newspapers said he would be indicted for murder.

An Army spokesman said that if the Japanese do not bring Kupski to trial, the Army will.

The Army said Kupski confessed to strangling Kazuo Eikawa Westcott, wife of ADI Robert L. Westcott, Nov. 17.

She was found in a Yokohama alley with her clothes twisted around her neck and stuffed in her mouth.

Westcott currently is stationed at the China Lake Naval Air Station in California. He had been trying to get his wife to the United States but her visa had been held up pending clarification of the spelling of his name.

His name on his marriage and birth certificates was spelled "Westcott"—dropping a "T."

Fisherman Is Stabbed by Swordfish

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A fisherman was stabbed by a swordfish off the Mexican coast Friday.

He was reported in "satisfactory" condition today at the hospital to which he was flown by a Coast Guard rescue plane.

Miguel Perera, 47, a crewman on the fishing boat Sun Glow, was hooked by the fish in the waters off Santa Maria Island, 500 miles south of San Diego.

Coast Guard officials said the swordfish's spear entered Perera's right side near his stomach and came out about 12 inches away on the left side.

Eisenhower to Root for Army Over Navy; to Watch Game on Television

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, home to recuperate in the laughter of his grandchildren, rooted today for his beloved Army cadets to tame vaulted Navy in their annual fall football classic.

The President, like millions of Americans, planned to watch the televised game between the two service schools in which the West Pointers were six point underdogs.

Eisenhower had no other plans scheduled today. Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, he drove from Washington Friday to his farm home here in the heart of this picturesque Pennsylvania Dutch countryside for a long Thanksgiving weekend.

The President was taking it easy. The latest medical bulletin, issued Friday, continued to report that he was making "excellent" progress in recovering from a slight stroke of last Monday.

The President's physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, who usually stays at a nearby motel when accompanying the President to Gettysburg, was quartered at the farm home for this trip.

The weatherman predicted more fair skies and mild temperatures this morning which might tempt Eisenhower out of doors again for another look around his 49-acre farm. He took a 70-minute tour by car and foot Friday around his sun-splashed acres.

The weatherman predicted more fair skies and mild temperatures this morning which might tempt Eisenhower out of doors again for another look around his 49-acre farm. He took a 70-minute tour by car and foot Friday around his sun-splashed acres.

He also might decide to show his grandchildren a trick or two on their horses today. Two of the children—David, 9, and Susan, 5.

During the struggle Jeans apparently lost his wallet, which police found.

The youth told officers he took Humphries car, drove to Van Buren, Mo., to pick up his girl friend and return her to St. Louis, then abandoned the car in East St. Louis.

George Zasacor, arrested by State Trooper James Fowler, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated when arraigned Friday before Justice of the Peace O. L. Woods, who fined Zasacor $150 and costs.

Mrs. Clyde Pittman will be the speaker at the Dec. 3 meeting of the Saline County Historical society to be held in the lower rooms of the Mitchell-Carnegie Library at 7:30 p. m.

This will be the first talk made by Mrs. Pittman on the European tour from which she has recently returned. She is a member of the Saline County Historical society and her talk Tuesday evening will be slanted toward the interests of the society. It will be more than the usual travelogue.

She will be concerned with historic places and incidents, conversations with the people, benefits of the Marshall Plan, and the economic status of the countries visited. Thrills experienced walking along the Appian Way, over which Julius Caesar led his legions; gazing at the Rosetta Stone, key to the secrets of ancient Egypt; and contemplating the Magna Charta, cornerstone of English liberty and the Bill of Rights, will be related by Mrs. Pittman. Visits to many places not ordinarily included in a planned tour and with people encountered in out-of-the-way places will add to the enjoyment the members of the society can expect.

Rita Towle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Towle of Eldorado, will sing the Christmas song "O Holy Night," accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur Fowler, Vincent Kaslar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kaslar, also of Eldorado, will sing "Ave Maria," accompanied by Barbara Johnston.

Mrs. James Bond will have charge of the social hour. Her committee will be composed of her son and daughter, Jimmie and Susan.

Guests are invited to attend the meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP)—World War II hero Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle today moved into the thick of the nation's souped-up missile and scientific effort.

The retired Air Force general is one of five prominent scientists appointed to beef up President Eisenhower's revamped scientific advisory committee.

They will work with new presidential scientific assistant Dr. James R. Killian, who was named to help guide the program for overcoming Russia in the space-science race.

In a move announced Friday at Gettysburg, Pa., where the President is recuperating at his farm from a mild stroke, Eisenhower also transferred the 7-member scientific committee from the Office of Defense Mobilization to the White House.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the decision to increase the size and give the committee "a more direct relationship" with the President was made Nov. 22—three days before Eisenhower's cerebral attack.

Doolittle, who led the first World War II raid in Tokyo, is now vice president of the Shell Oil Co. He also is prominent in aeronautical research and other scientific activities.

The group was renamed "The President's Science Advisory Committee." Also named to the committee were:

Dr. R. F. Bacher, professor of physics at California Institute of Technology; Dr. E. M. Purcell, professor of physics at Harvard University; Dr. Herbert York, director of the Livermore Laboratories at the University of California, and Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky, professor of chemistry at Harvard University.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major new split loomed in labor ranks today with hints the powerful building trades unions may quit the AFL-CIO.

The dispute may flare into the open next week. Richard J. Gray, president of the federation's Building Trades Department, was reported ready to air the threats to quit at the department's convention opening Monday in Atlantic City, N. J. That is just three days before the AFL-CIO convenes there.

One source said Gray relayed the threats earlier this week to AFL-CIO President George Meany.

The threat to quit the big labor federation stems from unhappiness among many of the 19 building trade unions over failure to find a formula to settle jurisdictional disputes between craft and industrial unions. Underlying this, some of the building trades felt the AFL-CIO moved too quickly in suspending the Teamsters Union on corruption charges.

If all three million members of the building trades unions should pull out of the federation, it would be a major challenge to Meany's leadership. He has been making a concerted effort to solve the jurisdictional problem.

But Joseph D. Keenan, secretary-treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, one of the larger of the building trades, said his union would not consider withdrawing from the AFL-CIO. A spokesman for the Bricklayers also denied any intention of pulling out.

Choose Tree Carefully for Safer Christmas

You'll have a safer and more enjoyable Christmas if you choose your Yule tree carefully.

A tree that has been cut too long or stored in a warm place will lose its needles quickly. Even more important, says O. L. Hogsett, extension safety specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, it's a fire hazard that can turn your Christmas into a tragedy.

If possible, cut your own tree
or buy it directly from the grower. Then keep it in a cool, shaded place out of the wind until you're ready to decorate it.

If you decide to buy a shipped tree, you can tell whether it's fresh by examining the needles.
Those on a fresh tree are limber, not brittle. If the needles snap or shatter easily, they will not only drop quickly, but will be a fire hazard once the tree is in a warm place.

Hogsett suggests putting the tree in a spot away from the drying heat of radiators, the fireplace or warm air registers. Be sure the tree holder has a good-sized water container, and keep it filled. Make a new cut on the bottom of the tree, slicing the trunk at an angle. This will let it absorb more water.

Feed Lambs Plenty of Hay

URBANA—Feeder lambs should be given plenty of hay to help keep them from eating too much grain, says Dr. R. D. Hatch of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.

Too much grain may cause over-
eating disease or enterotoxemia.
Lamb feeders should make sure the feed bunk will accommodate all of the animals at the same time.
Lambs received from the range
may be put on pasture or sorted
according to size and penned.

Overeating disease is found mostly among lambs, although calves may also be affected. Although nursing lambs may contract the disease when their mothers are grazing on especially nutritious pasture the lambs are more likely to be affected in the feedlot.

When a lamb first gets entero-toxemia, it goes off feed and then becomes listless and sluggish. The sick lamb may wander from the flock, become dizzy, have a convulsion and go into a coma and die.

Dr. Hatch says the important thing to remember is that no lamb
should have more feed than it needs. Farmers should be constantly watching for enterotoxemia
and call a veterinarian at once when the disease strikes. The veterinarian may be able to save the animals by using specific anti-toxins.

Nesting

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UP) —
Mrs. Harold Faircloth put her mop on the back porch to dry and when she next sought to use it,
found that a bird had made a nest
in it. The bird had burrowed out a small hole in the yarn and made it secure with mud and straw.

Overeating disease is most common among strong, aggressive animals.

Notes From Farm Adviser

L. B. Kimmel

Weather conditions the last week have certainly complicated the harvesting of corn and soy beans. The heavy rainfall since November 14 has prevented farmers from harvesting corn which in many cases had 25% moisture.
Now it will probably stay in that condition for another ten days
without more rainfall.

The late planting in spring is the chief cause of the above situation.
It made late harvest necessary and prolonged maturity. Otherwise the corn would have all been picked before the present condition.

There is no answer except pick the corn when possible, and if you are fortunate to have livestock,
market it by feeding the corn.

ASC PROGRAM

The Farm Adviser assisted the county committee review the 1958
and 1959 ASC program for Saline County at a meeting at the City Hall November 18. Others who assisted the ASC Committee were Ronald Coon of F. H. A., James

Menzie of forestry service, and Tom Morgan of SCS—the farm planner.

The 1958 program is very similar to the 1957 program with minor changes. The practices to be carried on by farmers who sign up for assistance are designed to fit about any type of farming in the county.

Certain practices in the national doctet which apply to cotton states, range or mountain states
were excluded from our program.

CATTLE OUTLOOK

The cattle business seems to be in best position for the past five years as far as numbers are concerned. In the corn belt farmers are feeding 9% less this year.
California is a big cattle feeding state, there is a 12% reduction in feeding of cattle there this year.
The number of cattle placed on feed from July 1 to September 30 was 22% less than last year.

More cattle may be purchased later and reduce the trend, but many of the ranchers from range country are holding back cattle
because they have had more rainfall and grass and hay are more plentiful. The drought of the past two years forced ranchers to ship out cattle they could not feed. Now they would be glad to increase numbers again.

The outlook is for reduction in cattle numbers to 1960, and at that time numbers are expected to build up again for a period of years.

A smart cattle man will watch markets and supplies that affect
him. A thought which occurred to me is that 1960 might be a good time to sell down to small breeding herd of cows and heifers.

to be caught short rather than long on a down market. Human nature seems to cause them to want to hand on when the price is high and disgust them with low prices. Those who sell when prices drop and buy in too high
are playing their economics wrong.
We all know that.

Hogs may be in larger supply in 1958 but not expected to increase enough to depress beef too much.

Warranty and Quitclaim Deeds

Warranty and quitclaim deeds
are the two basic types used in transferring Illinois farm property.
Persons who deal with real property should know their differences.

In a quitclaim deed, the seller conveys to the purchaser all of his right, title and interest in the described property. If the seller has title to the property, the purchaser gets it. But if the seller has no interest in the property, the purchaser receives what he bargained for—the seller's interest, which is nothing. Thus a quitclaim deed conveys good title only when the seller has such a title. The legendary purchases of the Brooklyn Bridge were probably completed
with quitclaim deeds.

The purchaser who receives a warranty deed gets more. He is, in a sense, guaranteed by law that the seller owns the property and has the right to convey, that he will have quiet and peaceable possession of the property and that it was free from encumbrances (mortgages, liens, etc.) at the time of the deed. The seller can put other warranties in the deed if he so desires.
These are known as express warranties as contrasted with the warranties which the law implies in a warranty deed. The seller is liable to the purchaser for a breach of any of these warranties.

Warranty deeds are more desirable in most cases than quitclaim deeds because of the protection they give the purchaser. However quitclaim deeds can convey good title and are frequently used to clear up titles where several persons have remote interests in the property.

The statutes of Illinois specify
the form and working that should be used in drafting both quitclaim
and warranty deeds.

Bedside Court

ROBINSON, Ill. — (UP) — An
unusual session of Crawford County Circuit court was held in the home of an attorney who was ill. He was a key witness in a case involving a will.

An experiment on wintering steer calves at the University of Illinois on alfalfa silage and corn silage showed little difference
whether more silage was added to the alfalfa silage at ensiling
time or at feeding time.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY

The golden bridge of life
Is but one way . . .
All paths whether filled
With thorns or flowers
Lead to the common democracy,
Where all men are equal . . .
Where Midas relinquishes his millions
And Lazarus his rags.

To those who have crossed it,
Elkdom has dedicated the first Sunday in December as a day
Of tender recollection and memory . . .
Fraternalism knows no more Dignified or befitting ceremony.

So Brother, forget not this day . . .
Congregate with your fellow men
To honor and pay the proper respect
To our great membership
Beyond.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of C. W. Staley, who left us two years ago Nov. 20, 1955:

In a little country graveyard
Not many miles away,
Lies a dear and loving son,
That God called away.

He called him to His home on high.
We cannot understand just why.
Oh how we miss you.

No one will ever know
God gave us strength to bear it.
And courage to meet the blow.
But what it meant to lose you.

This world will never know
Folks may think we have forgot
you.

When they see us smile,
But they do not know the heart-ache.

That lies behind it all the while.
Sadly missed by his father, mother,
brothers and sisters, the Roy Staley family. 130-1

'Paul's Witness for Christ'

Philippians 1:1-21
GOLDEN TEXT: "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." (Philippians 1:21).

INTRODUCTION — A saint is one who believes in Jesus Christ as his own personal Savior. Paul was a saint walking in human shoes just as is every believer today.

Paul, the great Apostle, suffered all kinds of hardship, physical pain, shipwreck, beatings, imprisonment, and he endured only as a true Christian can. Through all of this Paul maintained a real spirit of joy. If he were in a filthy prison, he was happy. If he were being scourged with a bull whip, he was happy. If he were shipwrecked on an island with a crowd of hostile sailors and natives, he maintained that joy and "peace that passeth all understanding." Only one who lives close to Christ daily could do so. Paul could honestly say: "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain."

Here we find a real example and lesson for every person who is enduring hardship or sickness or pain.

I PAUL ENJOYED HIS FELLOW-CHRISTIANS (V. 1-2)

Did you ever know a person who said they were a Christian, but they did not want to, or think it necessary to join a church? This is certainly not the attitude of a New Testament Christian. Jesus loved the church so much that "He gave himself for it." Paul knew this, and he enjoyed the Christian fellowship found in a local church. Christians today do also. Why, because it is only through local churches around the world that Christ's marching orders (Matt. 28:19-20) may be carried out.

The church at Philippi had grown in grace and numbers. They now had several bishops "which means 'pastor or overseer'", and they were rendering real service for Christ. Paul was delighted to be counted a member of their group.

II PAUL REJOICED IN DIFFICULTY (V. 12-18)

Hardships could not keep Paul from witnessing for Christ. He was in prison at the very time he was writing this letter to the Christians at Philippi. When people came to the prison to see Paul, he witnessed to them of the joy of being a Christian.

The guards were chained to Paul. He won so many of them to Christ that the officials began changing the guard every day to try to prevent this happening. Still Paul witnessed. Still men came accepting Christ as Savior. What a man was Paul!

Some men were jealous of Paul, and they preached all the harder to try to outdo him. Others preached Christ because of their admiration for Paul. Paul said: "What difference does it make concerning their attitude toward me as long as Christ is being preached?"

III PAUL LOOKED TO ETERNITY WITH JOY (V. 19-21)

Paul felt that as long as he lived, his life had a purpose. That purpose was to witness for Christ. Here again is a great lesson for all of us today. Very often a person upon a bed of affliction, with little hope of recovery, will ask: "Why does not God take me on. I am ready to die. I am no good to anyone on earth." Paul would answer that by saying: "Why, Christian friend, do you not know that as long as you live, it is Christ living?" Paul would encourage every person to be glad to be alive, for to be alive is to keep Christ's Spirit alive in the world today. He would, also, say: "It will be your gain to die, because you will then receive your reward in heaven."

CONCLUSION — A friend of mine often says: "It is great to be alive!" This is the spirit of Paul. It is the attitude that all Christians should have, no matter what life is doing to them. Friend, what is your circumstance today? Has life dealt you a

THE QUEST FOR NEW TRAILS

The history of man is a story of progress. Each of its thousands of volumes could bear one common title: The Quest for New Trails.

Even in childhood we display this strange genius which has brought us from primeval forests to this atomic age. We love to penetrate the untouched spaces . . . to open trails where none have ever been.

But this quest could destroy us more rapidly than it has profited us. History recounts the fall of many a civilization too busy with its search for new trails to understand its deeper needs.

For man can truly progress only when his spiritual growth keeps pace with his cultural and scientific advancement.

Or, bluntly, the future of this young Arctic explorer and of his world depends on the Church. The truths of God are unchanging—and ever more essential—as we seek new trails into the Unknown.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

hard blow? Have you recognized the hand of God in that blow? Did you know that God needs your Christian witness right where you are right now; so that someone else may receive His blessings? This is true, no matter whether the clouds are hanging low over your life, or if the sun is shining brightly above you! God wants you to truthfully say: "It is great to be alive!" Paul would put it this way: "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain."
